Used items:

For 3 bunnies

34 501 02 Air-drying clay, white

approx. ca. 200 g

24 034 00 Florist's wire, 0.65 mm ø, annealed

approx. 50 cm

Additionally you need:

Sharp knife, Wire cutter (e.g. 89 342 00), Pencil, potentially a kitchen scales

Instruction:

1 Use a knife to cut off pieces of the air-drying clay equivalent in size. Form the oval bodies with your hands and put them on a firm surface (table) to be held well in place.

2 Use the wire cutter to cut twice about 8 cm of florist's wire per bunny. Smooth out the slightly corrugated wire by pulling it with a pencil. Poke the holes for the ears in the clay shapes with the end of the wire. Then bend the ears into the desired shape.

IMPORTANT: Insert the wire ears into the holes once the clay has completely dried out. The clay can otherwise get rust spots.

3 Draw the eyes and mouth in the clay with a knife or a sharp pencil. The bunnies are fully dry after about 3-4 days.
